cinema is a sensuous object but in our presence it becomes also a sensing sensual sense making subject this title challenges basic assumptions of current film theory that reduce film to an object of vision and the spectator to a victim of a deterministic cinematic apparatus in order to understand vision we have to look into concepts of blindness both diegetically in typical film characters and in the representation of sight or lack thereof a critical historical investigation into theories of vision shows that the way we understand visuality today scientifically and culturally is very different from pre modern notions and practices in this book dago schelin questions categories such as active and passive vision tactile visuality as well as blind vision and discusses them alongside a variety of movies that deal with vision and blindness is there a connection between the filmmaker s gaze and an older pre keplerian ontology of vision what is the role of sound in vision are our eyes mere camcorders or might they be projectors these and other questions comprise the fascinating journey on which this study embarks satyajit ray s work put india on the map of world cinema and led akira kurosawa to say of him not to have seen the cinema of ray means existing in the world without seeing the sun or the moon beginning with pather panchali released fifty years ago this year ray won almost every major prize including an oscar for lifetime achievement what makes him unparalleled in cinema is that he was personally responsible for all aspects of his films from script to music published as a lavish album the hundreds of illustrations in this book include drawings by ray film stills and photographs by nemai ghosh who accompanied ray and observed his work for nearly twenty five years
